SIX CITY GOALS FOR 2013

A message from Mayor Mike Winder

Recently, as elected officials, we asked the public what areas they wanted us to focus on as a city. We gathered feedback on the city website, through social media and through our annual resident survey. The “suggestion box” was open, and we appreciated the many who took time to share with us what they’d like us to focus on.

Then, taking all of that feedback, we met as city leaders. For hours on end we combed through the suggestions, brainstormed ideas of our own, and ultimately voted on six key goals that we can focus on as a city for the coming year:

1- Have a more visible police presence on our neighborhood streets and in our public spaces. People feel safer and criminal mischief can be discouraged.

2- Have each city department find ways to make the city unique, meaningful and interesting. We are a unique place, working hard as leaders with our private sector partners to create original places—destinations unlike anywhere else in Utah.

3- Have 132 residents involved in city employment, city boards or neighborhood associations by the end of the year. Our goal is one-tenth of 1% of our population of 132,000 to be so involved.

4- Increase the number of college graduates in West Valley City through cultivating partnerships with higher education institutions, developing programs to foster employment and housing that will attract college graduates, and through educating existing residents. Only 12.8% of adults in our city have a college degree, and we need to encourage more of our young people to go beyond high school.

5- Provide both efficient and effective services and develop a sustainable facilities plan that accommodates future needs. We need to hold the line on spending, plan for future capital expenditures, and ensure that our city remains financially healthy.

6- Enhance our residential neighborhoods and plan for emerging residential changes and lifestyles by maintaining existing programs, strengthening resident involvement and creating new neighborhood associations. We need to execute on our new programs to encourage homeowner reinvestment, and we need to leverage the human capital in neighborhoods to better look out for each other.
